DETAILED ACTION

The amendment filed 10/18/07 is acknowledged. Claims 1 and 3-4 are being considered on the merits.

To clarify the invention, it is recommended that in the claims the term "mycological" be deleted, since the microorganism of interest is a bacterium and not a fungus.

The rejections under 35 U.S.C 101 and 112, first paragraph are withdrawn in view of applicant's averments and amendments.

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

This application currently names joint inventors. In considering patentability of the claims under 35 U.S.C. 103(a), the examiner presumes that the subject matter of the various claims was commonly owned at the time any inventions covered therein were made absent any evidence to the contrary. Applicant is advised of the obligation under 37 CFR 1.56 to point out the inventor and invention dates of each claim that was not commonly owned at the time a later invention was made in order for the examiner to consider the applicability of 35 U.S.C. 103(c) and potential 35 U.S.C. 102(e), (f) or (g) prior art under 35 U.S.C. 103(a).

Claims 3-4 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as anticipated by or, in the alternative, under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as obvious over Yang et al. (U.S. Patent No. 5,711,977).

The claims are directed to a specific strain of Bidifobacterium longum having certain properties.

The cited reference discloses strains of Bidifobacterium longum which are resistant to low pH at least one of which appears to be identical to the presently claimed strain (see, e.g., Tables I, II and V) since they are all resistant to low pH environments. At least one of the referenced microorganism appears to be identical to the presently claimed strain and is considered to anticipate the claimed microorganism since it is of the same species as that of the microorganism claimed and is taught to be effective in the same low pH environments.

Consequently, the claimed strain appears to be anticipated by the reference.

In the alternative, even if the claimed microorganism is not identical to the referenced microorganism with regard to some unidentified characteristics, the differences between that which is disclosed and that which is claimed are considered to be so slight that the referenced microorganism is likely to inherently possess the same characteristics of the claimed microorganism particularly in view of the similar characteristics which they have been shown to share. Thus the claimed strain would have been obvious to those skilled in the art within the meaning of USC 103.

Accordingly, the claimed invention as a whole was at least prima facie obvious, if not anticipated by the reference, especially in the absence of evidence to the contrary.

Response to Arguments

Applicant's arguments as they pertain to the above rejection have been fully considered but they are not deemed to be persuasive.

Applicant's arguments touting survival rates and pH resistance of the strain of interest are noted. While these arguments are persuasive regarding the strain per se, the claims under rejection as written are directed to a powder or a food composition comprising the Bidifobacterium longum strain in an unidentified amount, which includes traces. Inasmuch as there is no limitation in the claim-designated invention to require the strain to be alive in the powder or in the food or to require a concentration thereof effective to provide for a designated function, these arguments fail to persuade. There is nothing on the record to suggest that any food or powder would be changed in a significant manner by merely comprising a few dead cells, for example, of the strain Bidifobacterium longum FERM BP-7877 to patentably distinguish the powder or food over the powders and food products, disclosed, for example, at col. 6, lines 20-47 and Example 6 of the Yang reference.

Therefore the rejection is deemed proper and it is adhered to.

No claim is allowed.

Applicant's amendment necessitated the new ground(s) of rejection presented in this Office action. Accordingly, THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. See MPEP § 706.07(a). Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the date of this final action.
